ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In Longman Synonym Dictionary, a professional is characterized as efficient competent, capable, able, hardworking, conscientious, thorough, systematic, prompt, quick, practical, realistic, sensible, pragmatic etc. For police, it can be said that proper recruitment, training, modernization, introduction or upgradation of techniques of detection and investigation of crime, computerization, introduction of sophisticated arms and ammunition and methods of communication, designing and introduction of decision making and operational systems, upgradation of skills along with clarity in roles and organizational goals represent essential prerequisites for churning out a "professional" policeman. It represents also the value orientation and ethos of police organization. Police professionalism represents the qualitative dimension of excellence in service to community.

Inspired by Dr.T.N.Mishra, former Director of the Academy, we undertook this research project to study qualitative dimension of professionalism in SHOs in our country. We are extremely grateful to him for forwarding our proposal to the Bureau of Police Research and Development.

Our continuous interactions with Shri P.V. Raj Gopal, Director, and Shri P.S.V. Prasad, Joint Director of the National Police Academy have resulted in a focused enquiry into the professional standards of SHOs of our country.

We are extremely thankful to the Director General of Bureau of Police Research and Development, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi, for assigning this research project to the National Police Academy and providing the financial assistance.

Our colleagues in the Academy faculty deserve deep heart-felt appreciation and thankfulness for their contribution for helping us in designing the questionnaires. Their professional experience punctuated with objectivity has resulted in formulation of very good questionnaires for data collection.

Shri P. Venu Gopal, AO (Trg.) has contributed a lot in administration of the research project. We express our thankfulness to him.

Constant and tireless efforts of Shri Aditya and Miss. Shilpa, both Research Assistants of the project for data entry are worth mentioning. We express our gratefulness to them.

Grateful thanks are due to Shri K.Sunny and Smt.N.Krishna Priya, for analysis of data on SPSS Package and typing of the manuscript and Smt.P.Sailaja for D.T.P.work.

Lastly, we express our sincere thanks to all the SHOs and Senior Police Officers who responded to our questionnaires and provided the basic data for this research project.

PROFESSIONALISM IN POLICE - SHOs & THEIR PROFESSIONALISM

PROFESSIONALISM IN POLICE - SHOs AND THEIR PROFESSIONALISM

Introduction

It has been said that police are both an aberration and a necessity of modern society. This is because members of law enforcement agencies are granted powers that are greater than powers held by non-police persons. These include the authority to detain, search, use deadly force when required, and place persons under arrest, resulting in the deprivation of their personnel freedoms. Ironically, this authority is primarily delegated to individuals who not only occupy a management capacity in the police organisation, but who also represent the lowest rungs of our police bureaucracy - the Station House Officers (SHOs) and below. These SHOs thus provide the cutting-edge of police services and occupy, perhaps, the most pivotal role in the police organisation.

This study aims to examine the elements of professionalism in Indian Police at cutting-edge level, that is, the Station House Officers level.

1.1. The Idea of Professionalism

In contemporary police circles, "professionalism" is a favourite topic, in conversation, in publication, and in critical analysis. The assumption is that everyone knows what it means, and there is a further assumption that full-fledged professional recognition and status are highly desirable. Ideally, if the police behave professionally and are perceived as professional, they will more effectively fulfill their role. Similarly, they will provide a better quality of service which ideally, will also result in greater satisfaction by the public.

Logically, our idea of what it means to be professional police officer is governed by our notion of the police officer's role in society. It could be argued that, if we emphasize the law enforcement function, professionalism means attributes conducive to this function, for example, courage, respect for superiors, reliability, discipline, patience, obedience and so on. If, instead, we emphasize the peace-keeping side of policing, then professionalism means attributes such as common sense, friendliness, intelligence and courtesy.

There are two general characteristics of professionalism in any field, that deserve mention. One is that professional recognition and status is a matter of community attitudes. What makes a profession professional is the public saying that it is. It is a public certification of competence. The other characteristic of professionalism in its relativity. Thus we say that Indian Police is more, or less, professional than British police; state police forces are less, or more, professional today than they were ten years ago or that a particular SHO is more or less professional than his counterpart elsewhere.

These judgments are made relative to certain standards as to what constitutes professionalism. Inevitably these standards are role related.

1.2. Marks of a Profession

What marks do we look for in identifying a profession or professionalism? The dictionary defines a profession as "a calling requiring specialised knowledge and often long and intensive academic preparation, used by why either of instructing, guiding, or advising others, or of serving them in some art".

According to the Oxford Dictionary "Professionalism" means "belonging to, or connected to a profession, having or showing the skill of a professional, engaged in a specified activity as one's main paid occupation (often as distinct from amateur) - a professional person".

The Readers' Digest Universal Dictionary simply defines "Professional" as "One who has an assured competence in a particular field or occupation, having great skill or experience in a particular field or activity".

Some times in discussions on professionalism, reference is made to what is called "attitude" for example, in the aphorism "attitude makes the professional". The late Alexander Woolcott had attitude in mind when he defined a professional as "some one who does his best job when he feels worst".

Various experts have given different interpretations of the terms "Profession" or "Professionalism". To quote a few :

"[It is] a special kind of occupation when technical knowledge is gained through long prescribed training.....the professional person adheres to a set of professional norms that stipulate the practitioner should do technically competent work in the 'client' interest.

- A.J.Reiss, Jr(1971)

"Professions claim a body of theory and practice to justify their right to discover, define, and deal with problems".

- Peter K.Manning(1971)

"A profession can be defined as an organised association in which specialized knowledge and learning is used for the welfare of a population in accordance with advanced standards of technical performance, ethics and expertise."

- Sam S.Souryal (1977)

From these definitions, we can identify certain marks of a profession or a professional. A profession is client-oriented, it has a service ideal, it caters to human needs, not wants. It is self-policing, it has an ethic. Another mark is specialised knowledge, proficiency and skills, attained through vigorous education and training. Leadership is another mark expected of professionals. They should be teachers, sharing what they have learned. Professionals enjoy considerable autonomy in their decision. Souryal (1977), an expert on police management, has identified the following elements of a profession.

1. A clearly defined body of knowledge, constantly augmented and refined through specialised literature and research.
2. Facilities for ongoing education, rather than one-time training.
3. Uniform minimum standards of excellence for selection, training and performance.
4. A realistic code of ethics that defines the relations of the members of the profession to the public.
5. An unequivocal service orientation.
6. A well developed sense of dignity sustained by a progressive culture and respected by the public.
7. An organisation which includes a governing body of members qualified to supervise the profession and to influence the maintenance of high quality standards.

Some times in discussion on 'professionalism' an analogy is drawn between the police and lawyers or doctors. However, there exists a fine distinction which must be clearly understood before we discuss the concept of professionalism at the SHO level. Wilson (1962) sums it thus :

"Professionalism is a term that must be understood in a special sense when applying to policemen. Generally speaking, a profession provides a service (such as medical aid or legal advice), the quality of which the client is not in a position to judge for himself. Therefore, a professional body and a professional code must be established to protect both the client from his ignorance and the profession from the client who supposes that he is not ignorant. The policeman differs from the doctor or lawyer however, in important respects; first, his role is not to cure or advise but to restrain; and second, where health and counsel are welcomed by the recipients, restraint is not. If this is true, then professionalism among policemen will differ from professionalism in other occupations in that the primary function of the professional code will be to protect the practitioner from the client rather than the client from the practitioner."

We can now see that our definition of professionalism or of a professional will depend considerably upon what we regard as important in a particular field - what priorities we feel ought to be emphasised by workers in that field. However, before we specifically examine what professionalism means in the case of SHO, let us first clarify the role and duties of SHO.

1.3. SHO and his duties :

The officer-in-charge (OIC) of a police station or the Station House Officer (SHO) is usually of the rank of Sub-Inspector or Inspector. In some metropolitan cities some times Deputy Superintendents/Additional Superintendents are designated as SHOs. Generally, Inspectors are posted as SHOs in big urban/sub-divisional head quarter level police stations, whereas Sub-Inspectors function as SHOs, in rural or small urban police stations.

The National Police Commission (1980) in its 5th report(pages 15-16) has described the pivotal position of the Sub-Inspector/Inspector in our police hierarchy as follows:-

"The Sub-Inspector of Police occupies the most important functional area in the police hierarchy. He is usually the officer-in-charge of the police station and the principal investigation officer. The Cr.P.C. and other penal procedure Acts vest in him enormous powers like powers of arrest without warrant, release on bond or bail, search and seizure, carrying out inquests and summoning witnesses. In law and order situations, he has an arsenal of powers whose impact on the citizens' fundamental and other rights is far reaching. He combines in himself the preventive, detective and regulatory control function of law enforcement and he himself investigates crime and other cases. He is the Kingpin in the police administration at the cutting-edge. He comes into continuous contact with the public. He occupies the first level of supervision and leadership in the set up, over the Constables and Head Constables, who are most visible to the public eye. Much depends upon his capacity to get the active cooperation and assistance of the staff under his control and on his own professional competence".

Various State Police Manuals/Regulating standing orders describe the duties of SHOs in great detail. These may be summed up as follows:

- The SHO conducts and is fully responsible for the police administration of his charge.
- He assigns duties to his sub-ordinates.
- It is his duty to see that his sub-ordinates perform their duties correctly and to take measures for the preservation of the peace and the prevention and detection of crime within the limits of his station.

- He shall make it his business to acquire full local knowledge and to become acquainted with the people of his station limits and enlist their cooperation. He should also extensively tour his jurisdiction.
- He shall see to the instruction and drill of his subordinates, hold inspection of their kits, catechise them upon the performance of their duty and inspect their beat-books and note-books.
- He is responsible for the investigation of all cases.
( Adapted from the Madras Police Standing Orders, Vol.1, 1960)

In order to perform his duties efficiently the SHO has to be professionally competent and keep the public and his superiors satisfied. This involves a thorough knowledge and training not only in the legal aspects of this work but also in the practical side like scientific aids and other skills in investigations, gathering of intelligence, adequate knowledge of forensic science, forensic medicine, computers etc. In the area of law and order maintenance he should be trained and must acquire knowledge and skills in crowd control, meetings and procession, regulation of fairs and festivals and human rights issues. He should also have the necessary understanding of the causes that result in communal, agrarian, labour, student, caste and other areas of conflict. He is required not only to be prompt and effective in action, but discreet and tactful, considerate and compassionate. He should have faith in the preventive aspects of police work as well as criminal justice system and be able to stand up to its exacting procedures.

According to Malaviya (1979) in order to efficiently perform the leadership role at the police station, the SHO should :-

- have the moral courage to discharge his function without fear or favour and spurn improper suggestion, even if coming from influential quarters.
- have good understanding of the contemporary forces at work and be able to analyze and resolve complex issues of police authority.
- be able to exercise moral authority and good judgement to deal with competing demands of rival interest groups, which may be often aggressively expressed ; and
- be able to obtain commitment of the people in the organisation to their tasks and mitigate the effects of anger, frustration and anxieties built up in them in course of daily rub with the publics through counselling, exercise of enhanced positional power and by presenting an effective 'model' of impeccable behaviour and professional success.

It is , therefore, evident that the SHO occupies, perhaps, the most pivotal position in the police organisation in India and symbolizes the cutting-edge as far as police-public interface is concerned. Hence, professionalism at the SHO level is an absolute imperative for improvement of police-public relations. This professionalism can foster, strengthen and enhance efficiency in the organisation and with enhanced efficiency, the SHO, in particular, and the police , in general, can serve the people better.

Professionalism as already stated, means a proper balance of knowledge and skills on one hand and proper response to the needs of the public on other hand. Thus, professionalism at the cutting-edge level i.e. SHO level can enable the police to usher in a new era of improved police-community relationship.

1.4. Conclusion

From above discussion, many issues arise in our minds :-

1. What are the parameters of professionalism at the SHO level?
2. What are the professional hazards faced by SHOs, which inhibit their professionalism ?
3. What are the current and ideal levels of professional knowledge of our SHOs ?
4. What are the current and ideal levels of professional skills of SHOs?
5. What are the current and ideal levels of professional values of our SHOs ?
6. What do the SHOs, themselves, their superiors (senior police officers) and the members of public think of these issues?
7. What mechanisms should the police organisation evolve itself and what kind of help can be sought from various social and professional groups for improving professionalism at the SHO level ?

To the best of our knowledge no systematic country wide research studies have been taken up in India to answer the above cited questions. One of the researchers of this project, Dr. Anil Kumar Saxena had undertaken a seminal research study on the topic "Decline in Professionalism in Indian Police - Causes and Suggested Remedial Action" in 1995 under aegis of Bureau of Police Research and Development. This study had clearly brought out that professionalism in Indian Police is on the decline and also identified the factors contributing to the decline in professionalism. However, the present research study will focus entirely on the aspects related to professionalism at the cutting-edge level, that is, the SHO level as outlined above.

PROCEDURAL DIMENSION OF THE STUDY

---

PROCEDURAL DIMENSIONS OF THE STUDY

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Statement of Study.
- Objectives of Study.
- Sample.
- Data Gathering Instruments.
- Procedural Steps.

2.1. Statement of Study

The study was worded as under :

" Professionalism in Indian Police At The Cutting Edge Level (SHO Level)."

2.2. Objectives of Study

Following objectives of the study were defined by the investigators :

- Obj 1 : To assess the levels of professionalism in SHOs by measuring their current and ideal levels of:
- i) Professional knowledge,
  - and ii) Professional skills.
- Obj 2 : To assess the levels of professionalism in SHOs by measuring their attitudes to police, policing and the people who were being served by them.

- Obj 3 : To elicit the opinions of Senior Police Officers on professionalism in SHOs with regard to -
- i) Current and Ideal levels of professional knowledge and skills.
  - ii) Professional values.
  - iii) Professional hazards faced by SHOs.
  - iv) Improving professionalism in SHOs.
- Obj 4 : To elicit the views of SHOs on
- i) Professional hazards faced by them.
  - ii) Professional values upheld by them.
  - iii) Improving professionalism in them.
- Obj 5 : To recommend ways and means for improving professionalism in SHOs on the basis of the findings of the study.

2.3. Sample

Stratified random sampling procedure was adopted for data collection :

SAMPLE OF STUDY

	Sample
1. Station House Officers (SHOs)	886
2. Senior Police Officers	250

SHOs and Senior Police Officers were from various states of our country.

* 5 SHOs did not indicate their States. Total number of respondents were 886.

2.4. Data Gathering Instruments

Following data gathering questionnaires were used by the investigators.

2.4.1. Questionnaires for SHOs : A set of 6 questionnaires were constructed by the investigators (Appendix.....)

2.4.1.1. Professional Hazards Questionnaire - Response by SHOs

It consists of 27 professional hazards identified by the Investigator through literature survey and a brainstorming session with NPA faculty . The SHOs were required to tick mark any 10 professional hazards affecting them in discharging their role :

2.4.1.2. Questionnaire on Identification of Professional Values - Response by Station House Officers

35 professional values to be upheld by SHOs were listed. The respondents were required to rate each value on the following 5 point scale :

- 4 - Very Important.
- 3 - Important.
- 2 - Reasonably Important.
- 1 - Marginally Important.
- 0 - Not Important.

2.4.1.3. Professional Skills Questionnaire - Response by SHOs

Through intensive literature survey and brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty , 35 professional skills were identified by the Investigators. The current and ideal levels of these professional skills were to be marked by the SHOs on the following 5 point scale :

- 0 - Very Low
- 1 - Low
- 2 - Fair
- 3 - High
- 4 - Very High

2.4.1.4. Professional Knowledge Questionnaire - Response by SHOs

Through intensive literature survey and brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty , 35 professional knowledge items were identified by the Investigators. The current and ideal levels of these professional knowledge domains were to be marked by the SHOs on the following 5 point scale :

- 0 - Very Low
- 1 - Low
- 2 - Fair
- 3 - High
- 4 - Very High

2.4.1.5. Opinionaire on Improving Professionalism in SHOs - Response by SHOs

The Investigators identified 35 training and non-training interventions which may develop adequate levels of professionalism in SHOs. These were listed in the questionnaires and the SHOs were required to indicate on the below cited 4 point scale to what extent do they think the measures/strategies for developing professionalism will improve their level of professionalism.

- 3 - To a great extent
- 2 - To a considerable extent
- 1 - To some extent
- 0 - Not at all

2.4.1.6. Attitude Scale - Questionnaire for SHOs

The Likert type attitude scale was developed by the Investigators to measure the attitudes of SHOs towards police , policing and people being served by them. It consists of 25 items of which 11 were of positive polarity and 14 were of negative polarity. The scale of measurement was as under :

- A - Agree
- U - Undecided
- D - Disagree

Following are the Reliability Coefficients of the instrument :

No.of Cases = 821.0

No.of Items = 25

Alpha = .8716

2.4.2. Questionnaires for Senior Police Officers : A set of 5 questionnaires were constructed by the Investigators (Appendix.....)

2.4.2.1. Professional Hazards Questionnaire - Response by Senior Police Officers and Members of Public.

It consists of 27 professional hazards identified by the investigators through literature survey and brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty. The Senior Police Officers are required to tick mark any 10 professional hazards affecting them in discharging their role out of 27.

2.4.2.2. Questionnaire on Identification of Professional Values - Response by Senior Police Officers and Members of Public

35 professional values to be upheld by Station House Officers were listed. The respondents were required to rate each value on the following 5 point scale :

- 4 - Very Important
- 3 - Important
- 2 - Reasonably Important
- 1 - Marginally Important
- 0 - Not Important

2.4.2.3. Professional Skills Questionnaire - Response by Senior Police Officers and Members of Public

Through intensive literature survey and through brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty, 35 professional skills were identified by the Investigators. The Current and Ideal Levels of these professional skills were to be marked by the Senior Police Officers on the following 5 point scale :

0 - Very Low

1 - Low

2 - Fair

3 - High

4 - Very High

2.4.2.4. Professional Knowledge Questionnaire - Response by Senior Police Officers and Members of Public

Through intensive literature survey and through brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty, 35 professional knowledge were identified by the Investigators. The Current and Ideal Levels of these professional knowledge were to be marked by the Senior Police Officers on the following 5 point scale :

0 - Very Low

1 - Low

2 - Fair

3 - High

4 - Very High

2.4.2.5. Opinionaire on Improving Professionalism in SHOs - Response by Members of Public and Senior Police Officers

The Investigators identified 35 training and non-training interventions which may develop adequate levels of professionalism in Senior Police Officers. These were listed in the questionnaires and the Senior Police Officers were required to indicate on the below cited 4 point scale to what extent do they think the measures/strategies for developing professionalism will improve their level of professionalism.

- 3 - To a great extent
- 2 - To a considerable extent
- 1 - To some extent
- 0 - Not at all

2.4.3. Procedural Steps

Following procedural steps were adopted by the investigators for completion of study -

Step1 : Literature Survey for better comprehension of research study and preparation of questionnaires. Brainstroming sessions and workshops were conducted at SVP NPA in which views of faculty members and other experienced officers were collected.

Step 2 : Construction of Questionnaires

Step 3 : Selection of Sample

Step 4 : Data Collection

* Questionnaires to Supdts. of Police/Astt. Supdts. of Police by post for collection of data from SHOs working under them.

* Questionnaires to Senior Police Officers by post

* Visits of Research Associates and NPA Staff for data collection.

Step 5 : Scoring & Tabulation of Data (by using SPSS package)

Step 6 : Analysis and Interpretation of data.

Step 7 : Preparation of report.

2.4.4. Application of Statistical Treatment

Following statistical tests were applied for analysis of data :

Descriptive Statistics	-	Mean, Mode, S.D. Co-relation
Inferential Statistics -		Chi-square, t-test, Factor analysis etc.

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOs : KNOWLEDGE AUDIT

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Response of Senior Police Officers on professional Knowledge of SHOs.
- Response of Station House Officers on their levels of professional knowledge (Self-Perception).
- Difference between the responses of Senior Police Officers and the SHOs on current levels of knowledge in SHOs.
- Difference between the responses of Senior Police Officers and the SHOs on ideal levels of knowledge in SHOs.
- Conclusion.

3.1. Response of Senior Police Officers On Professional knowledge of SHOs

35 domains of professional knowledge were identified by the investigators through extensive survey of police literature and brainstorming sessions with NPA faculty. A questionnaire was constructed to elicit the responses of Senior Police Officers on current as well as ideal levels of knowledge in 35 domains of professional knowledge for effective functioning of SHOs. The responses of the Senior Police Officers were fed in SPSS Package . Means and Standard Deviations were calculated to ascertain the difference between current and ideal levels of knowledge . The results are presented in table 3.1.

3.5. Conclusion :

From above description it is inferred that the training (in-service and on the job) and non-training interventions should focus intensively in developing knowledge in SHOs in all 35 domains of professional knowledge identified by the investigators. However, more focus should be on the following professional domains of knowledge:

* Knowledge of police rules/procedures etc. -	(t-value: 9.0)
* Human Rights	(t-value: 9.0)
* Forensic Science/Scientific Aids	(t-value: 8.3)
* Forensic Medicine	(t-value: 7.2)

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOS : SKILLS AUDIT

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Response of Senior Police Officers on professional skills of SHOS.
- Response of Station House Officers on professional skills (Self-Assessment)
- Difference between the responses of Senior Police Officers and the SHOS on current level of skills.
- Difference between the responses of Senior Police Officers and the SHOS on ideal level of skills.
- Conclusion.

4.1. Response of Senior Police Officers on Professional Skills of SHOs

35 domains of professional skills were identified by the investigators through extensive survey of police literature and brainstorming session with NPA faculty .A questionnaire was framed to elicit the responses of Senior Police Officers on current as well as ideal level of professional skills in the various domains of SHOs. The responses of the Senior Police Officers were fed in SPSS Package. Mean and Standard.Deviation were calculated to ascertain the difference between current and ideal levels of in various domains. The results are presented in Table 4.1.

35. Management skills	1.58	2	.834	3.24	3	.722	24.44 (S)

From Table 4.1. it is evident that the SHOs, according to Senior Police Officers, had very low level of skills in the below - cited domains :

* Sense of Humour	-	1.48
* Innovativeness	-	1.49
* Stress Management	-	1.49

From Table 4.2. it is evident that the SHOs perceived themselves as having high professional skills in the following aspects :

* Political awareness	-	2.85
* Public relation skills	-	2.82
* Problem solving skills	-	2.80
* Decision making	-	2.73
* Human relation skills	-	2.71
* Investigative skills	-	2.69
* Motivation of self/others	-	2.67
* Management skills	-	2.64
* Omni competence	-	2.60
* Briefing skills	-	2.60

However, they perceived lack of professional skills in following skill domains :

* Time Management	-	2.14
* Technical skills	-	2.20
* Analytical skills	-	2.22
* Prioritising skills	-	2.21
* Delegation	-	2.23
* Team Building	-	2.34
* Information assimilation	-	2.36
* Intelligence collection	-	2.40
* Report writing	-	2.41
* Interrogation skills	-	2.41

4.3. Difference Between the Responses of Senior Police Officers and the SHOs on Current Levels of Professional Skills

By utilizing SPSS Package the differences in the perceptions in current levels of professional skills of SHOs in 35 domains of Senior Police Officers and the SHOs were studied by calculating t-values. The results are presented in Table 4.3.

4.5. Conclusion

From above description it can be inferred that intensive training interventions will have to be designed to develop below-cited professional skills in SHOs:

- Public relations skills.
- Communication skills.
- Decision making skills.
- Investigative skills.
- Interpersonal skills.
- Briefing skills.
- Planning skills.
- Problem-solving skills.
- Monitoring skills.
- Human relation skills.

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOs : VALUES AUDIT

---

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOs : VALUES AUDIT

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Response of Senior Police Officers on professional values held by the Station House Officers.
- Response of Station House Officers on the values held by them.
- Difference between the response of Senior Police Officers and SHO on values being upheld by SHOs.
- Conclusion.

5.1. Response of Senior Police Officers on Professional Values held by the Station House Officers.

Through a brain-storming session with NPA faculty, following 35 values were identified by the investigators. It was assured that the identified values provided the main core of the functioning of SHOs. These values were :

- Kindness
- Politeness
- Discipline
- Firmness
- Impartiality/Fairness
- Law abidingness

- Compassion
- Openeness to ideas
- Spirit of enquiry
- Inquisitiveness
- Respect for Law
- Honesty
- Pride in appearence & uniform
- Punctuality
- Responsiveness
- Sense of responsibility & accountability
- Pride in service
- Secular outlook
- Truthfulness
- Service-orientedness
- Regard for under - privileged
- Respect for Human Rights
- Patriotism
- Concern for life and liberty of people
- Trustworthiness
- Reliability
- Moral and physical courage
- Thoughtfulness
- Flexibility
- Initiative
- Confidence
- Concentration in work.
- Loyalty

This questionnaire was circulated to 250 Senior Police Officers at middle and top management levels. They were requested to indicate their perceptions on the extent to which these values were being observed by the SHOs while discharging their duties.

The results of questionnaire survey are presented in Table 5.1.

From Table 5.1. it is evident that Senior Police Officers' perception on the values being upheld by the SHOs was as under :

* The SHOs according to Senior Police Officers were displaying the following values 'to a considerable extent'.

- * Discipline (Mode - 4 : Mean - 2.79)
- * Impartiality/Fairness (Mode - 4 : Mean - 2.29)

* The SHOs according to them were found to exhibit the following values 'to some extent'.

- * Pride in appearance and uniform (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.57)
- * Confidence (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.56)
- * Respect for law (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.53)
- * Patriotism (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.52)
- * Loyalty (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.52)
- * Secular outlook (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.51)
- * Firmness (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.49)
- * Morally and physically courageous (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.48)
- * Pride in service (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.44)
- * Trust worthiness (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.43)

However, the Senior Police Officers perceived that the SHOs were displaying following values 'to a little extent':

- * Sense of responsibility & accountability (Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.49)
- * Law abidingness (Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.42)
- * Reliability (Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.40)
- * Punctuality (Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.39)
- * Responsivenss (Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.32)

* Initiative	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.28)
* Spirit of enquiry	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.27)
* Concern for life and liberty of people	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.26)
* Concentration	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.19)
* Service oriented	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.18)
* Inquisitiveness	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.15)
* Flexibility	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.15)
* Respect for Human Rights	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.11)
* Truthfulness	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.09)
* Thoughtfulness	(Mode - 2 : Mean - 2.06)
* Integrity	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 2.15)
* Honesty	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 2.02)
* Sympathy	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 2.01)
* Politeness	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 2.01)
* Kindness	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 1.83)
* Openness to ideas	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 1.83)
* Regard for under privileged	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 1.97)
* Compassion	(Mode - 1 : Mean - 1.75)

These values are required to develop more in SHOs through training and organisational development mechanisms.

5.2. Response of Station House Officers on the Values Held by them.

886 Station House Officers from various parts of our country were asked to communicate to what extent their actions were being guided by 35 values . The results are presented in Table 5.2.

* Trustworthiness	(Mode - 4 : Mean - 2.46)

* Respect for human rights (Mode - 4 : Mean - 2.43)

* Flexibility (Mode - 4 : Mean - 2.40)

From Table 5.2.it can also be inferred that the SHOs reported that they were using the following values to some extent while discharging their duties.

* Responsiveness (Mode - 3 : Mean - 3.18)

* Spirit of Enquiry (Mode - 3 : Mean - 3.16)

* Inquisitiveness (Mode - 3 : Mean - 2.94)

35. Loyalty	2.52	.09	250	3.51	.722	886	33.0(S)

From Table 5.3 it is evident that no significant differences at .05 level of significance were found with regard to the following values in responses of Senior Police Officers and SHOs

- * Trust worthiness (t-value : 0.4 NS)
- * Moral and physical courage (t-value : 0.7 NS)
- * Confidence (t-value : 0.3 NS)
- * Reliability (t-value : 2.4 NS)

For other values the differences in the perception were found significant at .05 level of significance. The differences between the perceptions of Senior Police Officers and SHOs on values being exhibited by SHOs may lead to lot of conflict in the organisation.

Since the self-perception is always higher than the reality, the training interventions should mainly focus on the value - areas as per the perceptions of Senior Police Officers.

5.4. Conclusion

From above description, it is very clear that the training and non-training interventions will have to be found more on development of following values in SHOs:

- * Responsiveness (Mode - 3 : Mean - 3.18)
- * Spirit of Enquiry (Mode - 3 : Mean - 3.16)

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOs : ASSESSMENT OF ATTITUDE

PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOs ASSESSMENT OF ATTITUDES

In this chapter following aspects are being covered :

- Attitude of SHOs towards Police and Policing.
- Performance on various items of attitude scale
- Conclusion.

6.1. Attitude of SHOs towards Police and Policing

An attitude scale was constructed to assess the attitude of SHOs towards police, policing and the public being served by them. It consisted of 25 items.

It was administered on 886 randomly selected SHOs of our country. Attitude scores were derived and the statistical calculations were done .The results are presented in Table 6.1.

Table 6.1.
PERFORMANCE ON ATTITUDE SCALE

Sample	Descriptive Statistics
886	Mean	-	32.340
	S.D	-	9.420
	Median	-	32
	Mode	-	28
	Variance	-	88.733
	Skewness	-	.065
	Kurtosis	-	0.757

The data was put on Normal Probability Curve (NPC) . Following results were obtained :

Table 6.1.1.
ATTITUDE OF SHOs

Score Range	Description	Frequency With %
1. 42-50	Very High	176 (19.9)
2. 32-41	High	288 (32.5)
3. 23-31	Moderate	276 (31.1)
4. 15-22	Low	121 (13.7)
5. 9-14	Very low	25 ( 2.8)
Total		886

From Table 6.1.1. it is inferred that 19.9% of SHOs (out of 886) were found to have very high attitudes to police, policing and people who were being served by them. 32.5% SHOs were found to have 'High' attitudes. 31.1% has moderate level of attitude. 13.7% and 2.8% SHOs were found to have low and very low attitudes respectively.

The trend was found to be good. For training and non-training interventions item-wise analysis of attitudes will be extremely useful. However, 47.6% SHOs are required to be shaped for better attitudes towards their profession and the people who are being served by them.

6.2. Performance on Various Items of Attitude Scale

Attitude scale consists of 25 items. These items measure the attitude of SHOs towards Police in general and Policing practices in particular . The attitude scale consists of 11 items of positive polarity and 14 items of negative polarity. The scale adopted was -

For Positive Polarity Items

- 2 - Agree
- 1 - Undecided
- 0 - Disagree

For Negative Polarity Items

- 0 - Agree
- 1 - Undecided
- 2 - Disagree

The data obtained from 886 SHOs from various parts of our country was fed into the SPSS Package for analysis. The findings are presented in Table 6.2.

From Table 6.1., following inferences can be drawn :

1) 42.3% of respondents (SHOs) agreed that their job provided opportunity to serve the people, whereas 56% of them were undecided 1.7% of them disagreed with the statement that their job provided opportunity to serve the people. The Chi-square value 842. 651 (d.f-3) communicates that the SHOs were found to be undecided (neither agree nor disagree) on whether job provides them opportunities to serve people . In 57.7% SHOs this attitude is to be developed.

2) Only 41.6% of SHOs agreed that legal procedures and formalities should be complied both in letter and spirit by police. Whereas 53.1% of them were undecided and 5.3% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 326.000 at df= 3 communicates that SHOs were found to have undecided response (neither agree nor disagree) on this statement. Thus in 58.4% SHOs the positive attitude - 'Legal procedures and formalities should be complied both in letter and spirit by police' was found lacking

3) 35.6% of SHOs agreed that in hostile situations the police is justified in adopting extra legal methods. Whereas 16.7% of them disagreed with the statement. 47.7% were found to be undecided The Chi-square value was 455.839 .The response of this negative po-larity item communicates that the SHOs are to be educated to a great extent not to adopt extra legal methods even in hostile situation.

4) 26.9% of SHOs agreed that police do very dangerous work for low wages, hence it is proper to take any extra rewards/gifts the public want to given them, whereas 35.3% were undecided and 37.8% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 308.725 communicates that SHOs were found to have undecided response on this issue significantly at .05 level of significance.

5) 31.4% of SHOs agreed that disrespect for police authority, even if there is no violation of law is a serious matter and should always be punished with an arrest or the use of force. Whereas 40% of them were undecided and 28.6% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 18.521 indicates that the SHOs were found to have undecided response on this issue. Thus 68.6% of SHOs perceived that arrogance is not an undesirable trait which indicates the need for more efforts to sensitise them in this respect.

6) 39.4% of SHOs agreed that they love their job and wish to continue in police department. Whereas 55.3% of them were undecided and 5.3% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 342.605 was found to be significant at .05 level of significance for d.f.=3. The causes of frustration in 60.6% SHOs is to be ascertained by top management for remedial measures so that SHOs may start liking their jobs .

7) 31.8 % SHOs agreed that due process is only a means of protecting criminals at the expense of the law abiding and should be ignored whenever it is safe to do so. Whereas 42% of them were undecided and 26.2% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 33.247 was found to be significant .05 level of significance for d.f.=3. Thus 73.8% of SHOs are found to be lacking in having a positive respect for due process of law.

8) 36.7% of SHOs agreed that an violation of Human Rights by police personnel should not be neglected by senior officers. Whereas 49.2% of them undecided and 14.1% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 166.286 indicates that the SHOs were found to have undecided response. It should be a message from the top management to the SHOs that the violation of Human Rights by police personnel will not be neglected by Senior Police Officers.

9) 37.3% of SHOs agreed that they were against accepting any kind of gifts or favour from anyone. Whereas 53.3% of them were found to be undecided and 9.4% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 259.259 communicates that the SHOs were found to have undecided response on this issue. This shows that 62.7% of SHOs were unconvinced about the value of integrity in their professional dealings which is not a desirable attitude.

10) 34.4% of SHOs agreed that the decisions about whether to enforce the law, in any but for the most serious cases, should be guided by what it says and who the suspect is. Whereas 45.8% of them were undecided and 19.8% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 85.165 communicates that SHOs were found to be undecided on this issue. This indicates that as many as 80.2% of the SHOs are not convinced in their belief for the dictum "Be you ever so high, the law is always above you".

11) 29.4% of SHOs agreed that policing is a thankless job and there is not job satisfaction, whereas 40.9% of them were undecided and 29.7% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 22.449 was found to be significant at .05 level of significance for  $df=3$ . 70.3% SHOs were found to have negative attitude to policing and they did not derive job satisfaction.

12) 38.9% of SHOs agreed that scientific methods should be adopted for better crime investigation. Whereas 58.1% of them were undecided and 3% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 407.260 was found to be significant at .05 level of significance for  $df=3$ . Positive attitude for using scientific methods in police work are to be developed in 61.1% SHOs.

13) 34.3% of SHOs agreed that the paramount duty of all police officers is to protect fellow policemen at all costs, even though you may have to risk your own career or your own life to do it. Whereas 46.2% of them were undecided and 19.5% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 92.788 was found to be significant at .05 level of significance for  $d.f.=3$ . Thus 80.5% of SHOs believe that showing loyalty towards their colleagues is of utmost importance.

14) 24.9% of SHOs agreed that their response time to a call or report depends on the nature of the call, the status of the person who reports as well as its importance to them. Whereas 41.9% of them were undecided and 33.2% disagreed the statement.

15) 42.1% of SHOs agreed that police excesses should be liable for legal scrutiny, whereas 47% of them were undecided and 10.9% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 198.197 for  $df=3$  was found to be significant at .05 level of significance. A positive attitude of respect for law was given in this question and the fact that a majority of SHOs (57.9%) were either undecided or disagreed shows that there is an urgent need to sensitise them in this aspect.

16) 48.6% SHOs agreed that police officers should never hesitate to use physical or deadly force against people who deserve it or where it can be an effective way of solving a crime. Whereas 33.2% of them were undecided and 18.2% disagreed with the statement.

17) 31.3% of SHOs agreed that if their colleagues routinely break rules, make a mistake, take small bribes or get into other kinds of trouble, they should not tell their superiors and should do everything to protect them. Whereas 22.4% of them were undecided and 46.3% disagreed with the statement. The Chi-square value 76.104 was found to be significant at .05 level of significance for  $df=3$ . Significantly the SHOs disagreed with the statement.

18) 39.2% of SHOs agreed that violations of due process cannot be admitted in court, so perjury (in the few cases that ultimately go to trial) is necessary and proper. 35.6% SHOs were undecided and 25.2% of them disagreed with the statement.

19) 24.3% of SHOs agreed that third degree methods are suitable for police as there is no time or resources available for applying scientific methods of investigation. Whereas 27.9% were undecided and 47.8% disagreed with the statement.

20) 29.4% agreed that complaints against police are always motivated by media or other vested interest. Whereas 34.4% of them were undecided and 36.2% disagreed with the statement.

21) 43.2% of SHOs agreed that there can be no excuse for bad behaviour with the public whatever the provocation, whereas 40.7% were undecided and 16.1% disagreed with the statement.

22) 31.2% of SHOs agreed that lying and deception are essential part of the police job and, even perjury should be used if it is necessary to protect myself or get a conviction as a "criminal". Whereas 29.7% of them undecided and 39.1% disagreed with the statement. Positive attitude in this regard is to be developed.

23) 50.3% of SHOs agreed that police will be respected if they respect the poorest man and the frailest women, whereas 42.9% of SHOs were undecided and 6.8% of them disagreed with the statement.

24) 48.7% of SHOs agreed that a good co-ordination with Magistracy and judiciary is the key to good policing whereas 42.9% of them were undecided and 8.4% of them disagreed with the statement.

25) 31.4% of SHOs agreed that they would like to see their children also join the police department. Whereas 31.8% of them were undecided and 36.8% disagreed with the statement.

An analysis of the above data indicates that the 25 items in the questionnaire were designed to assess the attitude of the SHOs in respect of the following 4 main domains directly linked with their professionalism :

- 1) Attitude regarding Respect for law.
- 2) Attitude regarding Pride in Service / Job Satisfaction.
- 3) Attitude regarding Ethical Responsiveness.
- 4) Attitude regarding Improving Professionalism.

The attitude scale consisted of 11 items of positive polarity and 14 items of negative polarity which are presented in Table 6.3. below:

The following inferences can be drawn from Table 6.4. regarding attitude of SHOs in respect of the 4 main domains given in the attitude scale :

1) Respect for Law

There were 5 items indicative of the attitudinal responses of SHOs regarding their respect for law. It consisted of 2 items having positive attitude (Item Nos 2 and 15) and 3 items indicating negative attitudes (Item Nos. 3, 16 and 18). The responses were as follows:

a) Positive Attitudes :

i) Respect for Law : The SHOs were asked to state their views on the statement "Legal procedures and formalities should be complied both in letter and spirit by police ". Only 41.6% agreed to this positive statement whereas 58.4% were not convinced. The fact that a majority of SHOS (53%) were undecided in their response to this attitude indicates that necessary remedial measures will have to be taken to inculcate this attitude in SHOs.

This attitude was further measured by another statement, "Police excesses should be liable for legal scrutiny". Again only 42.1% agreed and the remaining 57.9% were not convinced in their response to this attitude. A large number (47.0% were undecided which indicates that respect for law and legal processes needs to be developed in SHOS.

b) Negative Attitudes

i) Using extra legal methods : The SHOs were given the statement "In hostile situations the police is justified in adopting extra legal methods" Only 16.7% disagreed while the remaining 83.3% differed. The fact that as many as 35.6% agreed and 47.7% were undecided is indication of the need to create more awareness regarding human rights issues among the cutting - edge levels in our police.

ii) Illegal use of force : One of the characteristic features of the public sub-culture is the belief that use of force in the most effective method of solving crime or proving one's 'authority'. Accordingly the SHOs were given the statement "Police Officers should never hesitate to use physical or deadly force against people who 'deserve it' or where it can be an effective way of solving a crime ". Only 18.2% of SHOs disagreed and the remaining 81.8% either agreed (48.6%) or were undecided (33.2%). This indicates that an overwhelming majority of the SHOs are not averse to using force illegally.

iii) Committing Perjury : Only one-fourth of the SHOS disagreed with the statement that "Violations of due process can not be admitted in court, so perjury (in the few cases that ultimately go to trial) is necessary and proper". The fact that the remaining 74.8% did not outrightly think that committing perjury was wrong indicates that the need to develop a healthy respect and commitment towards the due process of law in the SHOs.

2) Pride in service/ Job satisfaction

Four items were included in the attitude scale which were indicative of the motivational levels of SHOs in respect of their pride in service and job satisfaction. Of these 3 items were showing positive and 1 item was indicating negative attitude. The responses are described below :

a) Positive Attitudes :

i) Service attitude : Only 42.3% of SHOs agreed with the statement that "My job provides me opportunity to serve people " of the remaining 57.7%, as many as 56% were undecided. This indicates that service attitude needs to be inculcated in the SHOs.

ii) Love for job : Responding to the statement "I love my job and wish to continue in police department", only 39.4% of SHOs agreed while the remaining 60.6% did not positively agree. The fact that as many as 55.3% were undecided shows that motivational and hygiene factors will need to be attended to so that the SHOS inculcate an attitude of love for their job.

iii) Pride in police : More than one-third of the SHOs disagreed with the statement "I would like to see my children also join the police department " while only 31.4% agreed. The fact that more than two-thirds of SHOs were either undecided or disagreed with this positive statement indicates that more efforts will have to be made to make the SHOs develop a sense of pride in their service leading to increased job satisfaction.

b) Negative attitude

Lack of job satisfaction : Less than one-third of SHOs disagreed with the statement "Policing is a thankless job and there is no job satisfaction". Nearly an equal number (29.4%) agreed with the negative attitude reflected in the statement and the remaining 40.9% of SHOs were undecided. This shows that more than 2/3rd of SHOs are not satisfied with their job.

In short, the survey has shown that a big majority of SHOs lack a service attitude and are not proud of their service. They also lack job satisfaction and love for their job. The police administrators, politicians and others will have to take serious notice of this lack of motivation and pride in SHOs and devise ways and means to strengthen the attitudes of pride in service and job satisfaction among the SHOs.

3) Ethical Responsiveness

Since ethical responsiveness forms the core of professionalism, the researchers have included as many as 10 items in the attitude scale which were indicative of ethical / behavioural attitudes among SHOs. Of these 3 items showed positive attitudes while the remaining 7 items indicated negative attitudes. The responses of SHOs are described below :

Our two-thirds of 2000 were not intended to be a this positive historical evidence that more women will have to made to make the 2000 ahead; a new battle for that leading to increased...

were undecided (35.3%) . The results obtained in the positive and negative statements on integrity are almost the same. As mentioned above, only 37.3% of SHOs agreed with the positive statement on integrity (item no.9) while almost an equal number disagreed with the negative statement on integrity (item no.4) . This again indicates that nearly two-thirds of SHOs have to develop a positive attitude of honesty and integrity.

ii) Use of force for disrespect of police authority : We have already seen (Item Nos. 3 and 16) that less than 20% of SHOs disagreed that police is justified in using extra legal methods in hostile situations or illegal force should be used against "people who deserve it" or to solve a crime. The response to the statement in item no 5 - "disrespect for police authority, even if there is no violation of law is a serious matter and should always be punished with an arrest on the use of force "- was not very dissimilar. Only 28.6% disagreed with this statement. This indicates that a large number of SHOs are not averse to using force or illegally arresting people who show disrespect for police "authority" . This is an area for bringing about an attitudinal change in SHOs.

iii) Ignoring due process : A little over one-fourth of SHOs (26.2%) disagreed with the statement "due process is only a means of protecting criminals at the expense of the law abiding and should be ignored whenever it is safe to do so". This again indicates the need to inculcate in the SHOs an attitude of respect for law and the due process.

iv) Discrimination in enforcement of law : As many as 80.2% of the SHOs either agreed or were undecided in their response to the statement "decisions about whether to enforce the law, in any but for the most serious cases should be guided by what the law says and who the suspect is ". This is indication of the need inculcating an attitude for unbiased and non-discriminatory enforcement of law in the SHOs.

v) Protecting wrongdoers in police : Only 46.3% of SHOs disagreed with the statement that "if my colleagues routinely break rules, make a mistake take small bribes or get into other kinds of trouble, I should not tell my superiors and should do everything to protect them". The remaining 53.7% either agreed (31.3%) or were undecided (22.4%). On comparing this attitude with the statement in item no 13, we find that as many as 80.5% of SHOs either agreed or were undecided in their response to the statement "The prominent duty of all police officers is to protect fellow policemen at all costs, even though you may have to risk your own career or your own life to do it". This indicates an attitude of fierce loyalty to colleagues, even going to the extent of hiding the truth from superior officers or risking one's career/life.

vi) Justifying, lying, deception and perjury : only 39.1% disagreed with the statement that "lying and deception are essential part of the police job and , even perjury should be used if it is necessary to protect myself or get a conviction". It indicates that truthfulness is not considered to be desirable attitude by a large number of SHOs.

In short, it is evident that an attitude of ethical responsiveness, honesty, truthfulness, respect for human rights and law, unbiased and good behaviour with the public needs to be developed in the SHOS.

4) Improving Professionalism :

The attitude scale included 6 items which were directly related to the attitude of SHOs regarding their professionalism and their response to the expectations of the society especially the under privileged sections. 3 items were relating to positive attitudes while the remaining 3 showed negative attitudes. The responses of SHOs are given below :-

a) Positive Attitudes :-

i) Scientific methods of investigation : While responding to the statement "Scientific methods should be adopted for better crime investigations", only 38.9% expressed their agreement and as many as 58.1% were undecided. This indicates that the majority of SHOs are not convinced regarding the use of scientific methods for improved crime investigation. This is an area which requires an attitudinal change.

ii) Respect for weaker sections : A little over half of SHOs (50.3%) agreed with the statement "Police will be respected if they respect the poorest man and the frailest woman". The remaining 49.7% of SHOs, 6.8% disagreed and 42.9% were undecided. It is a good sign that majority of SHOs agreed with the statement but the attitude of respect for weaker sections needs to be inculcated in the SHOs who disagreed or were undecided.

iii) Good inter agency Co-ordination : Although significant number of SHOs (48.7%) agreed with the statement "a good co-ordination with Magistracy and Judiciary is the key to good policing", a majority (51.3%) were either undecided (42.9%) or disagreed (8.4%) . This indicates that an attitude of having a healthy respect for other agencies in the criminal justice system and having good co-ordination with magistracy and judiciary needs to be inculcated in the SHOs.

b) Negative Attitudes :

i) Discrimination in response : ONLY 1/3 (33.2%) of SHOs disagreed with the statement "My response time to call or report depends on the nature of the call, the status of the person who reports as well as his importance to me". Thus a large number of SHOs appeared to be guided more by the nature of the call or the status of person before responding to any call rather than doing their job in a professional manner in accordance with the law.

ii) Justifying third degree : A little over half of SHOs (52.2%) showed agreement or were undecided in the response to the statement "third degree methods are suitable for police as there is no time or resources available for applying scientific methods of investigation". This response again under scores the need for greater sensitization among SHOs on Human Rights issues.

iii) Ignoring complaints against Police : A little over 1/3 (36.4%) of SHOs disagreed with the statement that "complaints against police are always motivated by media or other vested interest". The remaining 63.6% showed agreement or were undecided. This shows that a majority of SHOs are biased and have preconceived notions whenever the complaint against police personnel are received by them.

In short, the SHOs need to develop a more positive attitude in respect of :-

- Use of scientific methods of investigation to improve their professionalism.
- Respect for weaker sections.
- Improving co-ordination with other agencies of the criminal justice system.
- Not using third degree methods.
- Not being guided by status of person or nature of call while responding to call from public.
- Not being biased or partisan while attending to complaints against police.

6.3. Conclusion

The training interventions in attitudinal learning for SHOs should focus on the following :

- Attitude of respect for law and legal processes.
- Attitude not to use extra legal methods.
- Attitude not to use illegal force or commit perjury.
- Attitude to serve people
- Attitude of love for job and pride in service.
- Attitude of satisfaction from their job.
- Attitude of respect for human rights.
- Attitude of honesty and integrity.
- Attitude of good behaviour towards the public.
- Attitude of non-discrimination in law enforcement.
- Attitude not to justify lying, deception and perjury.
- Attitude to use scientific methods in investigation.
- Attitude not to justify third degree methods.
- Attitude not to ignore complaints against police.
- Attitude for better inter-agency coordination.
- Attitude of respect for weaker sections

PROFESSIONAL HAZARDS FACED BY SHOS

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Response of the Senior Police Officers on professional hazards faced by SHOs.
- Response of SHOs on professional hazards faced by them.
- Differences in the responses of the Senior Police Officers and the SHOs on professional hazards.
- Conclusion.

7.1. Response of the Senior Police Officers on Professional Hazards faced by SHOs.

In order to have the views of Senior Police Officers on Professional hazards faced by SHOs, a checklist was constructed by the investigators. They were requested to check any 10 professional hazards affecting the SHOs in discharging their duties in the checklist. Table 7.1. presents responses of the Senior Police Officers.

Table 7.1.

PROFESSIONAL HAZARDS FACED BY SHOs - SENIOR POLICE OFFICERS VIEWS

Professional Hazards	No.of Senior Police Officers checked
1. Interference by politicians	217
2. High stress and strain	198

Professional Hazards	No. of Senior Police Officers checked
1. Threat of Transfer	177
2. Long working hours	171
3. Less attention to family life	160
4. Negative attitude of public	148
5. Lack of infrastructural facilities	140
6. Unrealistic expectations from public	111
7. Interference by 'Media'	100

22. Arrogance and high handedness of superiors	44
23. Biased superiors	39
24. Incompetent superiors	28
25. Fear of imprisonment	21

It is evident from Table 7.1 that first ten professional hazards rated high by the senior police officers in SHOs were as under :

- Interference by politicians

- High stress and strain
- Threat of Transfer
- Long working hours
- Less attention to family life
- Negative attitude of public
- Lack of infrastructural facilities
- Unrealistic expectations from public
- Interference by 'Media'
- Lack of Rest

7.2. Responses of the SHOs on the Professional Hazards Faced by them.

A checklist having 27 listed professional hazards generally faced by Station House Officers was administered on SHOs. They were asked to check any 10 professional hazards faced by them. The accumulated response patterns is presented in Table 7.2.

Table 7.2.
RESPONSE BY STATION HOUSE OFFICERS
PROFESSIONAL HAZARDS FACED BY THEM

Professional Hazards	Frequencies

Incompetent superiors	70
Inadequate knowledge of laws/ procedures	68
Threat of imprisonment	65
Paternalism in subordinate staff	60
Unethical behaviour of SHOs themselves	33

It is evident from Table 7.2. that the following 10 professional hazards were being faced by SHOs as per their own perception.

- Interference by politicians.
- Long working hours.
- High stress and strain.
- Less attention to family life.
- Negative attitude of public.
- Threat of transfer.

- Lack of rest.
- Lack of infrastructural facilities.
- Poor pay.
- Health hazards due to overwork.

7.3. Differences in the Responses of the Senior Police Officers and the SHOs.

By utilizing the data presented in tables 7.1. & 7.2 the Rank order co-relation was calculated. It was found to be .9670. It is evident that the responses of the Senior Police Officers and the SHOs were very highly co-related so far as the professional hazards faced by SHOs were concerned. Senior Police Officers and SHOs were found to be not significantly differing in their perceptions on the professional hazards. First five highly rated professional hazards were :

- Interference by the Politicians.
- High stress and strain.
- Long working hours.
- Negative attitude of public .
- Threat of transfer.

7.4. Conclusion

Training and Organisation Interventions will have to evolved in police to check the following intense professional hazards faced by SHOs while discharging their duties :

- Interference by politicians.
- Long working hours.
- High stress and strain.
- Less attention to family life.

Negative attitude of public.

Threat of transfer.

Lack of rest.

Lack of infrastructural facilities.

Poor pay.

ve cited professional hazards will induce higher levels of them affecting their professionalism to a great extent.

IMPROVING PROFESSIONALISM IN SHOS - RESPONSE OF SENIOR POLICE OFFICERS AND SHOS

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Senior Police Officers views on improving professionalism in SHOs.
- SHOs views on improving their own professionalism.
- Comparison of the Responses of the Senior Police Officers and the SHOs.
- Summary.

Descriptions on each above-cited points are given below:

8.1. Senior Police Officers Views on Improving Professionalism in SHOs

An opinionnaire on improving professionalism in SHOs was administered on 250 Senior Police Officers of our country to elicit their views on improving professionalism. 35 possible strategies on a 4 point scale were presented to the respondents. The 4 point scale was :

- 3 - To a great extent
- 2 - To a considerable extent
- 1 - To some extent
- 0 - Not at all

The results are presented in Table 8.1.

5. Continuous research to identify problem areas and ensuring prompt remedial measures	108 (43.2)	107 (42.8)	30 (12.0)	5 (2.0)	2.27	3	.749

From Table 8.1 it is evident that the Senior Police Officers suggested the following strategies for improving the professionalism in HOs to a great extent. (Modal response - 3)

- Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at Police Station
- Superiors as Role Models
- Ensuring fixed tenure with high level of accountability
- Providing adequate budget and financial support for day to day activities
- Providing adequate manpower at police stations
- Rationalising the work load of SHOs
- Ensuring high levels of Morale and discipline
- Close Supervision
- Non-interference in day to day work by politicians and their extra-departmental functionaries
- Continuous research to identify problem areas and ensuring prompt remedial measures

- Separating investigational of law and order at police station

They were of the opinion that professionalism in SHOs can be improved to a considerable extent by the following measures or strategies.

- Ensuring sensitivity to professional values.
- Providing more recreational facilities.
- Conducting stress management programmes for SHOs (Yoga, Meditation etc.).
- Encouraging initiative and creativity in SHOs.
- Continuous dissemination of profession related knowledge and information.
- Emphasis on team building.
- Career planning and guidance
- Training in Human Relations Skills
- Frequent Inspections
- Training in Thana Records Management
- Realistic performance appraisal and counselling of SHOs and subordinates
- Attractive Rewards Scheme
- Changing archaic laws/procedures
- Strict enforcement of ethical codes and behaviour
- Continuous in-service training
- Improving salary, allowances and status

8.2. SHOs Views on Improving their own Professionalism

An opinionnaire enlisting 35 measures / strategies to develop professionalism in SHOs was administered on 886 SHOs of various es of our country. The responses of the SHOs on improving their n professionalism is presented in Table 8.2.

From Table 8.2 it is evident that the professionalism according to the SHOs may be developed in them to a great extent (Modal Response -3 ) by adopting the following measures / strategies.

- Providing adequate manpower at police stations
- Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at police station
- Attractive Rewards Scheme
- Rationalising the work load of SHOs
- Improving mechanisms for welfare and grievance handling
- Continuous in-service training
- Ensuring high levels of morale and discipline
- Providing social security to SHOs

- Ensuring non-interference in day to day work by politicians and their extra-departmental functionaries
- Training in Thana Records Management
- Improving salary, allowance and status

They were of the opinion that the professionalism may be developed in them to a considerable extent by adopting the following measures / strategies.

- Realistic performance appraisal and counselling of SHO and subordinates
- Career progression to be linked with training
- Changing archaic laws/procedures
- Providing more reorientation facilities
- Increasing use of computers with technical aids
- Conducting Stress Management programmes for SHOs (Yoga, Meditation etc)
- Encouraging initiative and creativity in SHOs
- Motivating informal communication among superiors and sub-ordinates
- Continuous research to identify problem areas and ensuring prompt remedial measures
- Emphasis on team building
- Career Planning guidance
- Close Supervision
- Improving community support in policing
- Frequent Inspections
- Strict enforcement of ethical codes and behaviour
- Ensuring fixed tenure with high level of accountability

- Separating investigational and law and order work at police station
- Providing adequate budget and financial support for day to day activities
- Training in Human Relations Skills
- Superiors as Role Models

3. Comparison of the Responses of the Senior Police Officers and the SHOs

On comparison of the responses of the Senior Police Officers and SHOs, it is evident that the first five measures / strategies to develop professionalism were found to be as under :

IMPROVING PROFESSIONALISM TO A GREAT EXTENT

Senior Police Officers Views	SHOs Views
Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at police station	1. Providing adequate manpower at police stations
Superiors as role models	2. Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at police stations
Ensuring fixed tenure with high level of accountability	3. Attractive rewards scheme
Providing adequate budget and financial support for day to day activities	4. Rationalising the work load of SHOs
Providing adequate manpower at police stations	5. Improving Mechanisms for welfare and Grievance and handling

IMPROVING PROFESSIONALISM TO A CONSIDERABLE EXTENT

Senior Police Officers Views	SHOs views
1. Ensuring sensitivity to professional values.	1. Realistic performance appraisal and counselling of SHO and subordinates
2. Providing more facilities.	2. Career progression to be linked with training
3. Conducting stress management	3. Changing archaic laws/programmes for SHOs (Yoga, procedures meditation etc.)
4. Encouraging initiative and creativity in SHOs	4. Providing more recreational facilities
5. Continuous dissemination of profession related knowledge and information	5. Increasing use of computers with technical aids.

8.4. Summary

From description presented in 8.2 and 8.3. it is evident, a lot has to be done for improving the professionalism in SHOs. The measures will involve -

- Role modeling by superiors (leaders) through further sharpening for their professional knowledge, skills and values.
- Training interventions encompassing
  - Stress Management
  - Creativity
  - Sensitivity training
  - Computer training
- Infrastructural development and effective man-power planning strategies.

- Development of effective performance appraisal system having linkages with performance, counselling, career planning and training.

CHAPTER 9

MAIN FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

---

MAIN FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

In this chapter the following aspects are being covered :

- Main findings of study.
- Recommendations for improving professionalism in SHOs.
- Conclusion

9.1. Main Findings Of Study

Following are the main findings of the study :

9.1.1. The SHOs in our country were found to lack adequate knowledge in the following domains of police work .

- Police rules/procedures etc.
- Human rights.
- Knowledge of Forensic Science/Scientific Aids.
- Forensic Medicine.
- Special and local acts.
- Police organisation, Administration & Police Environment.
- Crime investigation procedures.
- Drill/P.T.
- Field craft and tactics.
- Major investigation procedures.
- Dealing with conflict and ambiguity.
- Stress and Health Management strategies.

- Nonverbal communication skills.
- Dealing with media.

The SHOs were found to lack in the following professional skills :

- Public relation skills.
- Communication skills.
- Decision making skills.
- Investigative skills.
- Interpersonal skills.
- Briefing skills.
- Planning skills.
- Problem-solving skills.
- Monitoring skills.
- Human Relation skills.
- Stress management competence.
- Managerial skills.

As per the perception of the Senior Police Officers the SHOs were found to be lack in the following professional values :

- Pride in appearance and uniform.
- Confidence.
- Respect for law.
- Patriotism.
- Loyalty.
- Secular outlook.
- Firmness.
- Moral and physical courageous.
- Pride in service.

- Trustworthiness.
- Sense of responsibility and accountability.
- Law abidingness.
- Reliability.
- Punctuality.
- Responsiveness.
- Initiative.
- Spirit of enquiry.
- Concern for life and liberty of people.
- Concentration.
- Service-orientedness.
- Inquisitiveness.
- Flexibility.
- Respect for human rights.
- Truthfulness.
- Thoughtfulness.
- Integrity.
- Honesty.
- Sympathy.
- Politeness.
- Kindness.
- Openness to ideas.
- Regard for underprivileged.
- Compassion.

9.1.4. The SHO's were found to be lacking in the following attitudes:

- Attitude of respect for law and legal processes.
- Attitude not to use extra legal methods.

- Attitude not to use illegal force or commit perjury.
- Attitude to serve people
- Attitude of love for job and pride in service.
- Attitude of satisfaction from their job.
- Attitude of respect for human rights.
- Attitude of honesty and integrity.
- Attitude of good behaviour towards the public.
- Attitude of non-discrimination in law enforcement.
- Attitude of misplaced loyalty and even going to the extent of protecting undesirable colleagues.
- Attitude not to justify lying, deception and perjury.
- Attitude to use scientific methods in investigation.
- Attitude not to justify third degree methods.
- Attitude not to ignore complaints against police.
- Attitude for better inter-agency coordination.
- Attitude of respect for weaker sections

1.5. Following professional hazards were found to be faced by SHOs while discharging their duties :

- Interference by politicians.
- Long working hours.
- High stress and strain.
- Less attention to family life.
- Negative attitude of public.
- Threat of transfer.
- Lack of rest.
- Lack of infrastructural facilities.
- Poor pay.

9.1.6. Mismatch in perceptions of Senior Police Officers & SHOs

The study has also shown that there exists a wide gap between the Senior Police Officers and SHOs in so far as their perceptions of the current and ideal levels of required knowledge, skills, values and attitudes are concerned. This is borne out by the following fact:

Professional Knowledge :

Except for knowledge about the local electoral representatives, there appeared to be a significant divergence in the perceptions of Senior Police Officers and SHOs in current levels of knowledge of SHO in all other 34 domains identified by the researchers. The mismatch was quite pronounced in respect of domains of knowledge regarding:

- Police Leadership
- Management Theories and Practices
- Field Craft and Tactics.
- Drill/P.T.
- Constitution
- Handling weapons
- Dealing with media

The SHOs considered themselves to be more knowledgeable in all domains of knowledge levels as compared to that perceived by the Senior Police Officers. This indicates that there is an urgent need for more interaction and introspection by both Senior Police Officers and SHOs in order to bridge the gap between their perceptions and find ways and means to improve the current levels of knowledge of the SHOs in the identified domains. This will tend to increase efficiency of the SHOs raising thereby their level of professionalism.

Moreover, this study has also shown that the SHOs themselves consider that their current levels of knowledge in most of the identified domains are way behind the ideal levels required for better professionalism . The gap between the ideal and current levels as perceived by the SHOs is the maximum in respect of the following dimensions :

- Dealing with media.
- Contemporary Management
- Inter-agency liaison.
- Forensic Science and Scientific Methods.
- Stress and Health Management.

This indicates that immediate remedial measures need to be taken by way of better training and non-training interventions in these fields to improve professionalism of the SHOs.

Professional Skills

Out of the 35 professional skills identified by the researchers, there appeared to be again a significant divergence in the perception of the Senior Police Officers and SHOs on the current levels of skills in all domains . This mismatch was the maximum in respect of the following 5 skills domains :

- Management skills.
- Omni competence.
- Interpersonal skills.
- Stress management.
- Listening skills.

The Senior Police Officers perceived the SHOs to be less skillful in all domains as compared to the perception of the SHOs themselves. This is very significant and indicates an urgent need for more interaction and introspection between both Senior Police Officers and SHOs in order to narrow their gap and devise ways and means to improve the professional skills of SHOs .

The study has also shown that there exists a significant gap between the ideal and current levels of skills as perceived by the SHOs themselves . This gap is maximum in respect of the following 5 skills.

- Command skills.
- Technical skills.
- Briefing skills.
- Report writing skills.
- Communication skills.

Two important points need to be emphasized here :

a) All these skills can be improved significantly through available training methods, and b) the SHOs realize that in today's fast changing world, they have to improve their communication and technical skills to raise their levels of professionalism.

Professional Values

Out of the 35 values identified by the researchers, it is significant to note that the SHOs themselves identified that they were lacking to some extent in applying the following values in the discharge of their duties :

- Kindness.
- Sympathy.
- Compassion.
- Openness to ideas.
- Spirit of enquiry.
- Responsiveness.
- Inquisitiveness.

Again, as could be expected, there appeared to be a wide gap between the perceptions of Senior Police Officers and SHOs with regard to the values exhibited by the SHOs while discharging their duties. This gap was the maximum in respect of the following 5 values :

- Loyalty.
- Honesty.
- Integrity.
- Punctuality.
- Politeness.

This indicates that there is an urgent need for more interaction and introspection between Senior Police Officers and SHOs in order to inculcate these values in SHOs.

Professional Attitudes

Our study has indicated that as many as 47.6% of the SHOs included in this sample had moderate to low levels of attitudes towards their profession and the people being served by them. Out of the 25 items given in the questionnaire, the attitudes of SHOs were assessed with regard to :

- Pride in service.
- Respect for law.
- Ethical behaviour and responsiveness.
- Improving professionalism.

The study has clearly shown that urgent steps are required to develop the attitude of respect for law and pride in service among SHOs. A lot needs to be done also to improve ethical behaviour and responsiveness which will ultimately lead to better professionalism.

9.2. Recommendations for Improving Professionalism in SHOs

The Senior Police Officers were of the view that the professionalism in SHOs can be improved by the following measures:

- Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at police station.
- Superiors as role models.
- Ensuring fixed tenure with high level of accountability.
- Providing adequate budget and financial support for day to day activities.
- Providing adequate manpower at police stations.
- Ensuring sensitivity to professional values.
- Providing more facilities.
- Conducting stress management programmes for SHOs (Yoga, Meditation etc.)
- Encouraging initiative and creativity in SHOs.
- Continuous dissemination of profession related knowledge and information.

As per the response of the Station House Officers the professionalism in them can be improved by adopting the following measures :

- Providing adequate manpower at police stations.
- Providing adequate infrastructural facilities at police stations.
- Attractive rewards scheme.
- Rationalising the work load of SHOs.
- Improving mechanisms for welfare and grievance and handling.

- Realistic performance appraisal and counselling of SHO and subordinates.
- Career progression to be linked with training.
- Changing archaic laws/procedures.
- Providing more recreational facilities.
- Increasing use of computers with technical aids.

It is evident from these recommendations that most of the steps recommended by Senior Police Officers and SHOs for improving professionalism in SHOs can be taken by the department itself. The Government will have to initiate urgent measures to provide better adequate infrastructural facilities and manpower at police stations, adequate budget and financial support for day to day activities, change the archaic laws/procedures and above all, exhibit the necessary political will to tackle the factors inhibiting professionalism in police.

Conclusion

"Professionalism" they say, consists of two "Es" - efficiency and ethics. That is efficiency in performance and a code of conduct or behaviour governed by professional ethics. This study has shown that in order to improve professional efficiency at the cutting edge of police, i.e. SHO level, a lot needs to be done to improve the professional knowledge and skill levels in the domains highlighted above. At the same time suitable training and non-training interventions will have to be desired to help the SHOs improve their professional ethics by developing respect for professional values and standards given above. Wide ranging systematic changes will also be required to lessen the adverse impact of professional hazards faced by SHOs in the legitimate discharge of their duties.

The Station House Officer is the 'pivot' of our police system and everyone - the police organisation, bureaucrats, politicians, media and above all the citizenry of our country - has a stake in improving professionalism at this cutting edge level. This study is only an attempt to analyse the knowledge, skill, value and attitude parameters likely to lead to improve professionalism and suggest remedial measures based on the findings of our research. There is no doubt the fact that a lot needs to be done to improve professionalism at the SHO level. We sincerely hope that this study will help in providing an impetus to the ongoing efforts in this direction.
